

NO SIGNIFICANCE IN LIND'S HURRIED TRIP

PRESIDENT SAYS HE MERELY CONSULTED WITH HIM TO LEARN INFORMATION
FIRST HAND.

SITUATION UNCHANGED

Savage Fighting is Reported at Ojin-
aga Between Federals and Rebel Forces.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Guilford, Miss., Jan. 3.—President
Wilson announced today that his conference with John Lind had developed
no change in the policy of the Washington administration toward Mexico and that the new plan or move
in the situation had been decided upon.

The president referred to the conference as a "get-together" talk for mutual information. He explained that although Mr. Lind constantly had been sending full dispatches a conference of a few hours had been deemed
worth more than weeks of telegraphic communication with the added value
of affecting an exchange of viewpoint regarding the situation.

President Wilson added that there had been no special occasion for Mr.
Lind's visit—no advice, excitement
or new questions.

The president said that his conversation with Mr. Lind had covered the whole field of conditions in Mexico,
but that no particular measure or
plan had been dwelt upon.

When asked if he was more hopeful for a speedy settlement of the trouble, Mr. Wilson made it clear that his personal views of the situation
had not changed.

The president has held that the Huerta government is slowly being crushed not only by the constitution-
alist forces, but through incessant
isolation and that inevitably it must fall. He smiled when told of reports that Provisional President Huerta or some high official of the Huerta government was on board the Chester,
and said:

"Well, I didn't see them if they were there." The president said that while Mr. Lind was not exactly enjoying his long stay in Mexico, he was perfectly satisfied that there was and deeply interested in the situation.

The interview on the scout cruiser
between the president and Mr. Lind was comparatively brief, although the Chester had come 800 miles in order
that it might be held.

Fighting Continues.

Presidio, Tex., Jan. 3.—Savage
fighting between rebels and federals
continued throughout the night and was still in progress this morning. The besieged federals who were thrown into a panic at the re-
onslaught of the rebels today were resolutely making attempts of the attacking army to drive them from the town.

Before daybreak the artillery fire
of the rebels which had continued all night became more furious. Wounded
soldiers who crossed the river told
the American Red Cross officials that the federal losses were heavy. During the night about 200 federal soldiers were taken from the bottom about a mile from Ojinaga in an attempt to dislodge the rebels, but the constitutionalists with machine guns
whipped them back with severe losses.

Red Cross Supplies.

Scattering bullets fell on the American side of the line today, but no one was injured. Fresh Red Cross supplies which had been urgently needed
arrived today.

The federal army paymaster with $145,000 in Mexican currency arrived from Marfa today. A report that the money had been stolen proved untrue.

Refugees Safe.

Presidio, Jan. 3.—Two thousand Mexican refugees, including half-starved women and children and some
federal deserters, rushed across today
to seek protection from the battle at Ojinaga, Mexico, opposite here.

The refugees were scattered without shelter along the river bank for two miles while the heavy artillery firing
between the rebels and federals in the trenches at Ojinaga and Gen. Ortega's attacking rebel forces continued less than a mile back from the American border.

Imposed Hardship.

The arrival of so many unfed and
ragged people imposed an arduous
task on the United States border patrol
and the few Red Cross officials who are here. As many as 1000 were induced to the attempt set out to
dug to Marfa, Texas, 67 miles distant.
Meanwhile the little mission church at Presidio was crowded with wounded
refugees. Instructions came from Washington today to hold the river. Hereafter
the border patrol has been disarmed and sent back unarmored.

Many Casualties.

Major Schaff of the 7th were not few than 500 or seven hundred casualties on both sides, as he had seen
numerous rebels roll down the hillside
under the federal fire. Both sides,
however, he said were wasting ammunition.

San Luis Potosi Alarmed.

Mexico City, Jan. 3.—Such a state
of excitement has been brought about
in the city of San Luis Potosi by the report of a rebel attack that the villagers broke out among the inhabitants on New Year's day when
a herd of goats approached the place,
according to a correspondent writing
to the federal capital.

Costly Panic.

The rumors of the proximity of rebel
columns, the news of the dynamiting of trains and the bringing of the city of a number of nerves to a high tension. Suddenly on January 1st a cloud of dust appeared on a suburban roadway and virtually everyone in San Luis Potosi thought the rebels had arrived. Stones and doors were hurriedly closed and the houses were buried in the darkness of the night.
Detachments of troops and police
were rushed to the points
which had been chosen for the defense.

Soon the alarm subsided when it was discovered that the dust was raised by some 500 goats being driven to market. The New Year's bull fight, parade and other festivities then proceeded as usual.

Landed who for two days have unsuccessfully looted Nuevo Laredo, have withdrawn and encamped five miles east today. It was reported that between 100 cavalry and
artillery and that the assault
would be resumed late today.

WOMAN FIGHTS FIRE AND SUFFERS BURNS

Mrs. Lou Dillbree, Town of Magnolia, is Injured While Saving House
from Flames.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Cainville Center, Jan. 3.—Mrs. Lou Dillbree was painfully burned about
the face while fighting a fire which threatened to destroy her home, one mile north of Magnolia corners, on Wednesday evening. Mrs. Dillbree
struck a match in her bed room for the purpose of lighting a lamp, and
part of the match flew into the bed clothes. She thought nothing of it and went about the household duties. In a few minutes the whole bedroom was ablaze, the bed clothes and curtains
having caught fire from the spark of the smoldering match. Aid was summoned from neighbors and the fire
was finally extinguished, but not until
the furniture in the bedroom had been burned and the walls and ceiling blackened. Mrs. Dillbree was burned about the face and her hair was burned when a celluloid comb she was wearing took fire.

REBEL POWER GAINS AMONG LEADERS WHO REMAINED NEUTRAL

Huerta Administration Weakening
and Preparations Are Made for Final Stand at Capital City.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Mexico City, Jan. 3.—The Huerta
administration has lately come to be frankly on the defensive. A month ago all the talk was of success and
victory among the rebels and almost daily glory won by Huerta's arms. It was almost treasonable to hint that the rebels were making headway, but lately even friends of the government and its cause have talked of the president's chances for holding back the rebels than of making any progress against them.

Those who have followed developments will not be surprised, however,
at the defense committee's realization
that the rebels slow down to a dogged determination to hold their hard earned positions, and if Huerta is able to hold out for many months.

Consequently, and few Mexicans are gaining their judgment against accumulating facts. If they could make up their minds just when to get out
they would leave the capital before
the final clash, but a cannot very well
sacrifice what business and property
they have by abandoning it indecimen-
tally and so they are taking their chances. Others are working hard on the defense committee, realizing that they probably will be among those
within the foreign compound when trouble starts.

Prepare for Siege.

It is realized that Carranza can bring about the city tens of thousands of followers once he cleans up the regions outside the federal district;
and that thousands for whom he has no arms and who are ever ready to join the successful leader, will hasten
to join him without the city and unite
with his followers for possible loot
within. But Mexico City would be able to withstand a siege and hold out a long time. Stored in one place and another there is an abundance of food
stuffs, there are numerous small gardens within the district the defending army could control, and cutting the light and water lines will be a vital blow. "There once was a time
when we didn't have electric lights,"
said Huerta one day, and so far as the water is concerned, there are dozens of artesian wells within the city,
and almost at any point the waters of the old lake can be tapped at from six to ten feet underground. Cutting of the water supply would undoubtedly bring about a speedy end to the situation. That disease inevitably would follow, but many weeks might elapse before this condition became vitally serious.

Money is Scarce.

The impetus into which
many of the old wealthy families of Mexico have fallen is responsible for a new line of business among many small Spanish merchants. The buying of jewelry is a sign to be seen in
many stores, and the growth of this business indicates that many persons are realizing cash on their family jewels.

Pawn shops throughout the land
also are reaping a rich harvest in jewelry. Money loaned on jewelry
and other articles sent in by the aged servants of families who never until now have known what it meant to be in want of money. Now all these families in pawn shops and in the financial agencies. Some yet are millionsaires. Some retain enormous holdings of land and houses, but there is none to buy.

One man, an American, recently offered for sale 18,000 acres of unim-
proved but rich tropical land for 10-000 pesos. He could not sell it. Two years ago he refused three pesos an acre.

REFREEE PROTESTS COMMITTEE VERDICT

Official at Gridiron Contest, When

Charges of Rough Playing.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Boston, Jan. 3.—A protest against the report of a committee at this week's meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic Association in New York concerning the death of Verner
S. Belyea of the Norwich University
football team has been made by Nathaniel A. Tutts of Waltham, referee of the Norwich-Holy Cross game in which Belyea was injured. Mr. Tutts
in a letter to Dr. George W. Butler of the University of Wisconsin, chairman of the committee, takes exception
to the committee's report that Bel-yea's death was due to a "fierce and unnecessary tackle, which broke his back after he had already been tackled and down."

The letter says there was no unnecessary roughness and calls attention to the fact that Belyea was badly
hurt in the Norwich-Dartmouth game
in 1912, of which Mr. Tutts also was referee.

VILLAGE THREATENED WHEN SEA WALL FAILS

Sea Bright Resort, Swept by High

Streets—Hotel Partially Wrecked.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Sea Bright, N. J., Jan. 3.—This village, not yet normal after the disastrous storm of Christmas Eve, was washed by wind and wave again today. The bulkheading replaced after the recent storm was swept away by the high seas and strong wind during
the night and at daybreak the wind
was still in the east and the sea was inundating buildings along the shore line.

The worst damage was at Octagon Hotel, where the sea tore away the spilling driven into place a week ago
and wrecked the dining room wing of the structure. In the fishing section of the village wind and water racing
had done today. Buildings which had been strengthened were again
undermined and toppled over.

Emergency squads of workers were doing everything in their power to save the town. The sea was at high tide at noon. Persons in summer cottages were notified by telephone.
Many cottages were flooded and lawns
were piled high with sand and debris.

ENDS THIRTY YEARS ON CIRCUIT BENCH

Judge Samuel Hastings of Green Bay Retires After Long and Able Service.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Green Bay, Jan. 3.—After an uninterrupted service of thirty years as a circuit judge, Samuel D. Hastings of Green Bay will retire today. He will be succeeded by Judge J. H. Brown and Henry Grass of Sturgeon Bay will become judge when the first term of court for Brown county for 1914 is opened Monday morning.
Judge Hastings will step out of office with a record equalled by only one man in Wisconsin, Judge Clem-
entson of Sparta, who is serving his 31st year now. Judge Hastings was born in 1884 when he was 42 years of age. His record on the bench has been creditable for his decisions and the fact that he raised the standard of the court to present high level. He has been a member of the state and helped by example to some of the most able lawyers in the state. The judge presided over a circuit consisting of Marinette, Oconto,
Brown and Door counties until a year
ago and the Bar Association at Marinette and Green Bay paid high tribute at banquets held in his honor. His circuit during the last year has included Brown, Door and Kewaunee
counties.

the defense to quash the warrant and
at the end of the hearing took the

MONEY POWER SEEKS TO FOLLOW ADVICE OF PUJO COMMITTEE

Morgan Firm's Withdrawal From Directorships in Fifth Recommendation Followed Out.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Jan. 3.—The announcement of the retirement of J. P. Morgan and four of his partners from thirty directorships in twenty-seven corporations and Mr. Morgan's reference to the change in public sentiment
in regard to the directorships, has called attention to the fact that five important recommendations of the Pu-jo committee were already being put into effect in advance of legislation
requiring them.

They include the abandonment of
fiscal agency agreements such as existed between the New Haven and Morgan's Company, the abolition of interlocking directorates, the abolition of voting trusts; reforms in the stock exchange and reforms in the clearing house.

Whether Mr. Morgan will decide to withdraw from the directorate of the United States Steel Corporation was
the subject of a great deal of speculation today. The general opinion was that as the steel trust was the greatest of the Morgan creations and was considered by the elder Morgan as the crowning achievement of his financial career, his son will consider it
a duty to remain identified with it
and especially until the government suit has been decided.

Indiana University Professor Reports Country Students Ahead of

from the rural districts are better in mathematics than students from the cities, according to Prof. David Henderson of Indiana University, who today
rock of the mathematics department
enrolled in the mathematics department during the fall term of school.
The students were grouped according to parentage into three classes,
those whose fathers are farmers,
those whose fathers are professional
men and those whose fathers are engaged in commercial pursuits. The first named class consisted of only one percent of the 250 students, the second class 13 per cent and the third 86 per cent. The students from the farm made an average of 82.4 on their final examinations as compared with 74.5 for the second class and 65.5 for the third class. Only 7 per cent of the farmer class failed to make a passing grade as compared with 18.4
per cent of the professional and 17
per cent of the commercial classes.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Jan. 3.—Building
improvements at all of the state charitable and penal institutions during the next year will be discussed by the state board of control at a special meeting here next Tuesday. A special committee of the last legislature made
a visit and investigation of all of the institutions and at the meeting of the question will be the most important

one under discussion.

under 18, who deserted telephone
switchboards in New York City and
were sent to a reformatory, were remain features of the show, which

BRYAN WILL ADDRESS STUDENT VOLUNTEERS FOR FOREIGN MISSIONS

Over Sixteen Million Dollars Contributed by Protestant Churches
For Foreign Missions.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Kansas City, Jan. 3.—The total foreign missionary contributions of American protestant churches for the last year was $16,398,000, according to a statement made to the Student Volunteer convention by J. Campbell White of New York City general secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement.
In addition to Mr. White, Dr. James Barton, of Boston, secretary of the American Board of Commission of Foreign Missions, J. H. Franklin, foreign secretary of the American Baptist Foreign Mission society and Dr.
R. F. Horton of London spoke.

Tonight William J. Bryan, secretary of state, will address the convention.
The evening is to be devoted to a symposium of "The World Strategy of Christ." Mr. Bryan arrived today
from Washington.

"The contributions for the year just
ending to foreign missions," declared
Mr. White, "is twice the total amount contributed to foreign missions eight years ago."

Contributions to the home missionary object during the same period although I have not the exact figures, has been much larger than the increase to foreign missions," he added.

Mr. White declared special interest attaches to this convention in the minds of several hundred representative laymen who are in attendance
because it was at the Student Volunteer Convention held at Nashville, Tenn., eight years ago that the student missionary movement had its real inception.

GINK AND DINK - PETEY HAS FALLEN FROM GRACE.

Sport Snap Shots

It's too bad, but it looks as though old Bob Fitzsimmons won't be allowed to go in and clean up the heavyweights as he threatened to do not long ago. The New York boxing commission has decided not to let the old top take the chance, and should Fitz continue to train for a bout as he has been doing they will be obliged to step in and call a halt. There is a ruling in New York state preventing matches between old stars of the ring and his rule will be enforced if Fitz insists on trying to enter the ring. No one has anything against Fitz personally, but from it—his age and the fact that he is a fighter who is often said to be old men in the ring, even though they are still in their twenties, but in the case of Fitz there is real senility.

Clark Griffith, the prominent Washington manager and the only man who ever got away with anything in Cincinnati, says that spring training trips aren't at all necessary. This thing of going to warm and sunny climate at an unreasonable time of the year doesn't do all the good it is thought to and Griffith is somewhat set against it. The Washington team, generally known as the Senators, was about 100 miles south of Washington, and a place where the climate is scarcely any

UNIVERSITY COACHES TRAINING CREWS FOR BIG ROWING SEASON

Wisconsin Has Heavy Crew and is Expected to Make Eastern Sweep-swingers. (By Associated Press.) New York, Jan. 3.—With the passing of the holiday season the short period of the holidays season is about over. From now until late in June the struggle for seats in the racing shell and the daily training grind will continue without intermission. Coaches are overhauling rowing material, rigging barges and generally preparing for 1914, which, it is predicted, will be the greatest college rowing year in the history of the sport. Eight universities or colleges in the east, one in the middle west and three on the Pacific coast have already planned their rowing campaigns, which include a larger number of dual, triangular and intercollegiate regattas than ever before recorded in this country. Abroad Oxford and Cambridge are near the half-way mark in their training for their annual race, and their progress is being closely watched in view of a possible international inter-varsity regatta before midsummer.

Promising Season. The eastern college rowing situation, considered as a whole, is one of the most promising in recent seasons. Aside from Columbia and Syracuse, there are large and veteran squads available at every institution which advocates rowing. In almost every case more than 50 per cent of the oarsmen who won their varsity letters in 1913 regattas are trying for places in the eight again and the places in the eight are being supplemented by excellent material from last year's freshmen combinations. The recent ruling of the intercollegiate stewards providing for a race for second eights in place of the four on the Hudson, will also provide extra places for the aspiring sweep-swingers. Under this ruling it will be necessary for those colleges which desire to compete in all three events on the Hudson to develop and seat twenty-four oarsmen in the shells for the varsity, second and freshmen races.

Open Winter Helps. The open winter has proved a help in the fall practice and several of the coaches report that their charges were able to establish new records for late autumn rowing during 1913. Coach Courtney had six eights in the water on Dec. 6 and has planned to send his crews out at every favorable opportunity during the entire winter. At Syracuse, Coach Ten Eyck, who has just signed a five-year contract, is also planning for an early season start. If the board of stewards of the I. F. A. will permit the students of the forestry department to row for the Orange, Ten Eyck's wishes will be fulfilled. A stiffer proposition faces Tim Rice at Columbia, for the New York university squad appears to grow smaller each year and Rice finds it difficult to secure even a fair number of students physically suited for the hard four-mile race on the Hudson.

Have New Coaches. The situation at Pennsylvania and Yale is much alike, in that both colleges are working with new coaches. At New Haven, a trio, composed of Richard Armstrong, captain of the '95 crew; Guy Nicholls of England and C. F. Giannini, recent New York Athletic club coach, will direct the work of the Eli crewmen. HIGH QUINTET WIN IN PRACTICE GAME

Curtis Men Down All-Stars With Loss of Atwood.—Capt. Hemming is Satisfied With Team's Showing. Although the score was not kept track of, it is frankly admitted by the all-stars themselves that they were beaten by the local high school aspirants at the school gym yesterday afternoon. The score was very close, even for the fact that the high school team was in the first half. With a change in lineup, the high school could do nothing, and the all-stars came very near winning, time alone hindering them from gaining a victory over the school squad. The Curtis aggression however claims a win by a large score.

The game was merely a practice for both sides. Credit is due the high school for holding their opponents as well. Eddie Joe Ryan and Korst composed in part the all-star lineup.

Moving Picture: "Why," asked the man in the brown derby, whose attention had been called to the unsteady progress of a tipsy reveller who was passing, "do you say that that man reminds you of moving pictures?" "Because," replied his companion, placidly lighting a cigarette, "his eyes are filmed and he reels."

Two weeks ago, Luther Lindauer, of Kaukauna, sold the horse to W. B. Taylor of Sedalia, Mo., for five thousand dollars. Mr. Taylor had had his eye on the animal during the last few weeks of the grand circuit racing and had arranged to campaign him next year. However, three days later he was offered eight thousand for him by agents of an Austrian nobleman who breeds and races fast horses and disposed of him. This horse was one of the many trained on the track of the Janesville Park Association last spring and summer and shipped at one-half cent per 100 pounds extra.

Ernest Axtell, with mark of 2:07 1/4, will be shipped to Vienna, Austria by New Owners. The speedy little horse which was trained here last spring and then went out and took first monies in some of the big grand circuit events, finished the season with a mark of 2:07 1/4, will be found next year in the stables of one of the best racing barons of Vienna, Austria.

Two weeks ago, Luther Lindauer, of Kaukauna, sold the horse to W. B. Taylor of Sedalia, Mo., for five thousand dollars. Mr. Taylor had had his eye on the animal during the last few weeks of the grand circuit racing and had arranged to campaign him next year. However, three days later he was offered eight thousand for him by agents of an Austrian nobleman who breeds and races fast horses and disposed of him. This horse was one of the many trained on the track of the Janesville Park Association last spring and summer and shipped at one-half cent per 100 pounds extra.

Ernest Axtell, with mark of 2:07 1/4, will be shipped to Vienna, Austria by New Owners. The speedy little horse which was trained here last spring and then went out and took first monies in some of the big grand circuit events, finished the season with a mark of 2:07 1/4, will be found next year in the stables of one of the best racing barons of Vienna, Austria.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

We've done our little charity, we've been a little kind, we've called ourselves by noble names and boasted noble mind, we've preached of the deserving poor and listened to their plea. And we are smug and satisfied and proud as proud can be.

"This Christmas we at least," we say, "were kind to some poor soul."

When the Christmas spirit gripped us—and we sacrificed a dollar!

But harken, ye, my brothers all, and the poor are always with us, and they broken hearted still, they're living in their loneliness, they're calling, calling, calling.

And they're calling, calling, calling, we gave them cheer at Christmas, then we made our little bow, but the winter chill is with them still, and who will help them now?

—Edmund Leamy in New York Times.

This aftermath sentiment, so nicely expressed, is more than suggestive, because it is so true to the every day experiences of life.

The holiday season is so full of good cheer, and so much is done to bring to neglected homes a ray of joy and happiness, that for the moment the unequal struggle for existence is forgotten, but as the cold gray days of the new year the same old problems present themselves for solution.

One night this week six hundred guests enjoyed the hospitality of a private party. It was a happy, care-free company, full of life and animation, with no suggestion of want or trouble.

The same evening, one thousand people, on pleasure bent, took in the carnival at the auditorium, while the opera house and every other playhouse in the city played to "standing room only."

There is nothing significant about the fact that so many Janesville people were spending an evening in play and social enjoyment, except that it speaks well for the general prosperity which has blessed the city.

The spirit of benevolence is the pro-

vailing spirit at Christmas time and hearts and pocket-books respond, which could not be touched at any other season of the year.

A gentleman noted for conservatism was noticed, the other day, with a good sized roll of bills, engaged in looking up needy people, who might have a sorry Christmas, but for a little help.

There are many people who satisfy their consciences by liberal donations, at this season of the year, and while this kind of work is always helpful, yet it leaves much to be accomplished for the poor are always with us, and somebody must represent them after the enthusiasm of Christmas has expended itself.

The broadest and most intelligent charity, for every day use, does not consist in giving, and it is fortunate for humanity that Christmas customs do not extend beyond the holiday week, for indiscriminate giving encourages idleness and develops pauperism.

The spirit of socialism is already a disturbing element in this country, and there are far too many people who are coming to believe that the world owes them a living, one of the craziest notions that ever disturbed a human mind.

To people thus affected, the gift of money comes as a divine right, for it means simply a division of property, and they soon assume the roll of pensioners, without any feeling of humiliation.

No argument is necessary to show what the final outcome will be. The mothers' pension law, now being tried in Oregon, furnishes an object lesson, and this only affects the men indirectly.

The most intelligent charity consists in helping people to help themselves. This encourages independence and develops man and womanhood. The problem which the larger cities are attempting to solve, just now, is not how to feed the army of unemployed, but to find work for these unfortunate people.

Wherever possible, construction work is anticipated, and many names are added to the city payroll. This is commendable, and the plan should be adopted by all cities. It helps the men to preserve their self-respect, and their work represents value received.

One of the most hopeful signs of the times is found in the fact that our public schools have come to realize the importance of equipping their output for service, and while the literary standard is maintained, for the benefit of the few, the masses are coming into their own through practical channels, which combine the work of both hand and brain.

As a result the farmer boy of today, will be the educated farmer of tomorrow, and the great army of boys and girls, who enter the realms of industrial and commercial life from the grades, will have definite knowledge of the one thing which they can do best, and so will not become drifters.

There was never a time in the history of the country when so much attention was given to child welfare, and to the conservation of human resources, as today. Many states have passed stringent laws prescribing the age limit, and the hours of labor, and factory sanitation and protection is universally demanded.

The southern states are the slowest to respond to these new regulations, because of ignorance, and because the southern industries are liberal employers of child labor, but the south will soon be forced into line.

This change of sentiment means a stronger race, and a broader intelligence, for the next generation, and it will do more to check the tide of socialism than all other kinds of teaching combined.

The little poem recognizes the fact that in spite of prosperity and a chance to live in the best land under the sun, that poverty and suffering still exist, and practical sympathy is demanded throughout the year.

That these conditions abound is all too true. Some people are so unfortunate as to come down to the last lap of the journey, with no preparation for its exigencies. Whether it be their fault or their misfortune is not a debatable question. They are with us as part of the common brotherhood, and the duty is ours to lend a hand.

There are homes of want where helpless invalids suffer, and where little children, not responsible for these conditions, appeal to us. To all such unfortunate homes the Christmas spirit should be extended throughout the year.

On the Spur of the Moment

The Dilemma.

The president sat in his sanctum.

His brow it was furrowed with care;

The ubiquitous seekers of office

Were here, there and everywhere.

He found them behind the cupboards,

He found them behind the clock,

And like the pestiferous microbes,

There was an inexhaustible stock.

He found them behind the curtains,

He found them beneath the bed,

They'd got on his nerves until Woodrow

Had almost begun to see red.

He swatted with vim and with patience,

He swatted with power and with grace,

With a got rid of one, nineteen others

Would be there to fill up the space.

And then he cried in desperation:

"It's too much for me, I'll be bound,

If I gave out positions forever,

I don't think I'd get all around."

Hank Tumma's son Wilbur threatens to become a poet when he grows up, and Hank doesn't know whether to shoot him now or let him suffer.

Lem Hanks got into a poker game down to the city the other day with a lot of fellows at the hotel. He says the fellows looked straight enough, but he thinks there was something crooked with the deck.

One fellow had three aces and a pair of nines and another had three fives and a pair of kings that he pulled out of his boot. He says dog gone them crooked games, anyhow. It was all he could do to pull out ahead.

Rev. Hudnutt, pastor of the Hard shell church, has gone to the city to buy an oyster and when he returns the ladies' aid will give an oyster supper for the benefit of the church. The oyster which lasted all last season, but it was mislaid somewhere, and when they went to look for it this year it was gone. The oyster they use this year will be made by the Cedar River Oyster Company.

Miss Amy Pringle, the proprietor of our millinery emporium, has bought a genuine bird of paradise plume for her bunnet. She says it certainly must be genuine, for she paid $1.35 for it wholesale. It is the first time she has had a genuine regret for her hat; and the same is expected to create quite a furore in our midst, whatever that may be.

A lot of women dress on $25 a year before they are married, but forget how afterwards.

Lem Higgins fussed around for two years with a second-hand coat, and then he traded it for a mule. When a mule kicks him into the middle of next week, a feller sort of expects it.

Heart to Heart Talks

By CHARLES N. LUNIE

WHEN YOU WAKE UP.

When you wake in the morning does your mind remain asleep, while the rest of you rises and goes about its daily business?

Some folks leave their minds in bed. There they remain all day and all night until they become confirmed invalids. By and by, when there is a call upon their powers, it is found that long disuse has crippled them.

The minds are atrophied. Such persons need mental alarm clocks.

They should awaken their minds, after their physical selves have risen, by the stimulus of a new thought.

One new thought each day, with allowance made for Sundays and holidays, when the mind may receive a rest, means 300 new thoughts a year.

That is more, many more, than most persons indulge in.

The mind may have its treadmill as well as the body.

If yours is following the same dull, deadly, daily round of its accustomed thoughts—

Try to get out of the rut. Lift yourself out of your accustomed mental surroundings and climb the hills that lie around you. There are physical hills, you know, as well as the physical heights which encompass us. On their top is the ozone of pure, clear, clean new thought.

"I never was a man to let a thought sleep," says Dickens. Dr. Margold. "You must wake up the whole family of thoughts you've got and burn their nightcaps, or you won't do in the Cheap Jack line."

You won't do in any other line either.

In one sense a man may be said to be alive who permits his mind to slumber. In another sense he is very much dead. He lives only because his body keeps on working, not because his mental power wills it.

The Earl of Chesterfield, author of the famous letters, once said:

"Tyranny and I have been dead these two years, but we do not choose to have it known." He meant that their physical powers were exhausted, but their minds and will power kept them alive.

Their minds were not asleep, you may be sure. They mingled in the life of their time and kept abreast of the current movements. Whatever was of interest to the London of their time interested them.

In this they set good examples for the people of today.

EUGENIC LICENSES
GIVEN TWO COUPLES
FROM OTHER STATES

Persons Who Could Be Married Outside of Wisconsin, Just As Well Take Out First Permits Under New Law.

County Clerk Howard W. Lee has issued two marriage licenses under the new eugenics law, one on Friday afternoon and the other this morning. The peculiar thing about it was that in both instances the parties could have been married just as well in other states where there is no health certificate required, thus avoiding the expense and inconvenience made necessary under the Wisconsin statute. Marcien Hurlbush, of Chicago, Ill., an elderly man, was the first to make application for a license and when he was informed by the county clerk that a health certificate was an essential part of the license, he returned with a clear bill of health late Friday afternoon. He will marry Adeline Hurlbush, his brother's widow, who is coming from Minneapolis, Minnesota, to meet him in Janesville for the marriage. They will have to wait five days, which is another requirement in this state which could have been avoided had Mr. Hurlbush had his bride meet him in Chicago for the wedding. The second license was issued this morning to Elwin Hoover of Beloit and Lydia Scott of Scott County, Wis. In this case the natural place to have taken out a license was at Rockford but the eugenics law had no terrors for the bridegroom who secured his health certificate so nearly as to be determined. (Signature of physician). County Clerk Lee has blanks ready for use which may be filled out by physicians making the examinations. Mr. Lee declared that he does not believe that the law requires the application of the Wasserman test, which is also the opinion of Attorney General Owen which was addressed to Dr. Geo. H. Ripley, president of the Wisconsin board of medical examiners, as follows:

"Replying to your communication of Dec. 26, in which you ask whether the word 'acute' may be inserted in the certificate of the physician given under the eugenics law, so that it will certify that the person examined is free from all acute venereal diseases, I will say that the law requires the certificate to be in the form thereto attached and that no change can be made in such form."

"I have recently given my opinion, however, that the examination required by the law does not include the Wasserman test, and that a physician qualified to make, and such as a physician may reasonably be expected to make for a fee of $3. Reading the law as a whole, it is absolutely clear that the highest scientific test was not in the mind of the legislature and when the nature of the Wasserman test is considered, it is plain that the legislature did not intend that such test may be applied before a doctor could give the certificate required by this law, therefore advise you that any physician applying the ordinary test at his command or at the command of the ordinary practicing physician of the state, may make the certificate required by this law without hesitation or fear of result."

"Replying to your communication of Dec. 26, in which you ask whether the word 'acute' may be inserted in the certificate of the physician given under the eugenics law, so that it will certify that the person examined is free from all acute venereal diseases, I will say that the law requires the certificate to be in the form thereto attached and that no change can be made in such form."

"I have recently given my opinion, however, that the examination required by the law does not include the Wasserman test, and that a physician qualified to make, and such as a physician may reasonably be expected to make for a fee of $3. Reading the law as a whole, it is absolutely clear that the highest scientific test was not in the mind of the legislature and when the nature of the Wasserman test is considered, it is plain that the legislature did not intend that such test may be applied before a doctor could give the certificate required by this law, therefore advise you that any physician applying the ordinary test at his command or at the command of the ordinary practicing physician of the state, may make the certificate required by this law without hesitation or fear of result."

LOOKS FOR BROTHER
WHOM HE NEVER SAW

August Weiberg of Orfordville, seeks brother who was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital Milwaukee. August Weiberg of Orfordville, has begun a search for his brother who was taken when an infant to St. Vincent's Hospital, Milwaukee, on Dec. 6, 1886, for adoption and whom he has never seen or heard from. Mr. Weiberg's mother was committed to the state asylum at Mendota in 1886 and shortly after her arrival gave birth to a son who was put in charge of the St. Vincent's authorities by Stephen Kenyon, then procurator for Rock county. It is supposed that the child was later adopted by Mr. Weiberg who is four years older than his brother, has thus far been unable to secure the information which he seeks. He has taken the matter up with County Clerk Lee and an effort will be made to interest the local Catholic clergy in the case.

WILL AWARD PRIZES FOR FARM CONTEST

Contest Among Rock County Farmers For Efficient Farm Management Closed January First. Prize winners in the Rock county farm management contest, which was closed on January first, will be awarded within a few days as Professor Otis, the state university, will keep a squad of assistants are expected to arrive in the city this afternoon to adjudge the reports of the Rock county farmers who entered the contest at the time of the mid-winter fair held last year at the Auditorium.

The object of this contest was to encourage the farmers in keeping careful accounts of every transaction on their farms, which results in determining the true earning power of each department. In this way the agriculturists at the state college hope to educate the producers of the important business side of farming. By keeping the farm record the farmer can learn his most financial success and bring his farm down to a systematic standpoint.

The farm management contests were organized last year to encourage this work and Professor Otis has organized a series of similar contests in many other counties in the state. Each contest will present to the farmer all business items of the year tabulated, and the awards will be based as follows: seventy-five points on net profits, the size of the farm and the capital invested being given equal consideration. The remaining twenty-five points are based on the conditions of the farms, including the herds, buildings etc. The Rock County National Bank and Savings and Trust company have contributed to the contest for the prizes. The winner of each county contest will compete for the larger prizes in the state contest.

JANUARY MEETING ON MONDAY EVENING

Twenty-five Thousand Club Will Hold Regular Session at City Hall.

Secretary Van Beynum of the Twenty-five Thousand Club announces that the regular January meeting of that organization will be held on Monday evening next at the city hall. "As there are many questions of importance to be considered I trust there will be a large attendance," said Mr. Van Beynum. "We are now considering a public amusement park scheme, the question of aiding the proposed holding of a fair in this city in connection with the regular meeting of the Park Association in August, and plans for a Fourth of July celebration will be taken up. As all these questions are of importance to the members it is hoped all will be present to investigate various plans and make their report at the next regular meeting in February." The question of holding a fair in Janesville during the coming summer is the first order of business. The club is made up of men who are in almost all of the men's clubs in the city, so that the sentiment can be expressed on the subject. The members of the Twenty-five Thousand Club are organized to gather since New Year's day and the opinion expressed there will practically voice the general sentiment of the city. The fair if held would be a benefit to the city and the Park Association in connection with their August race meet, and would not be in any conflict with any other fair held in the country. It would be for the whole country but could not take the name of a county fair owing to the fact the Evansville fair is now known as the Rock County fair and have a right to the title.

HOLIDAY BUSINESS
LOCAL POSTOFFICE
MAKES NEW RECORD

Popularity of Parcel Post Responsible for Increase of $500 in December Receipts.

"All records in the history of the Janesville postoffice were broken as to the amount of business done, during the past year and the large financial increase, insures the success of the parcel post system, that class of mail being the cause of the increase, was the statement of Postmaster Valentine speaking of the success of the business in Janesville for the past year.

The receipts for December were the heaviest on record and the holiday rush necessitated eight day wagons and two extra clerks in the office to handle the mail without delay. No trouble was experienced and every package that was mailed up to eight o'clock on Christmas day was delivered on the twenty-fifth. The receipts during December were $7,200.54, an increase of $518.70 over last year. The increase in money is only small compared to the added amount of mail that was sent during this month, for under the new parcel post system a two cent package cost thirty-two cents for the same distance. Since the department instituted the use of postage stamps, six months ago, it is estimated that over six thousand packages have been sent through the Janesville office under this protection.

Postmaster Valentine urged that the public take advantage of the insurance as much as possible because for the nominal fee of five and ten cents full liability can be secured from the government for parcels at the maximum value of twenty-five and fifty dollars in case of loss or damage.

The report shows that during the year 1913 the Janesville postoffice transacted $62,760.94 worth of business, compared to $58,016.22 the previous year, a gain of $4,744.72. The parcel post system requires a large force increasing the expense of the postal department, the office still shows a financial gain. It is expected that the parcel post will be even more greatly increased during this year, as the public is learning more of its value and with the new cut in rates, the advantages of the system are largely extended.

LIBERAL PARTY HELD GOVERNMENT REINS FOR RECORD PERIOD

Members of Parliament Ask for Larger Salary Than Recently Given Them for Election Funds.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Jan. 3.—The Liberal party, which recently celebrated the eighth anniversary of its return to power, now has the honor of leading the affairs of the British empire for a longer consecutive period than any party for nearly a hundred years. Premier Asquith has now been in office for over five and a half years, and in April next, if his government survives, he will approach the record of Lord Salisbury, whose second term of office lasted just seven years.

In his recent tour in Lancashire Mr. Asquith referred to his long term and the stormy times that his government has weathered. Asquith has been an almost continuous fight. Finding early in his career that the house of lords would not pass any of the legislation that his followers had set their hearts on, Mr. Asquith, with courage which even his opponents could not credit as strong, undertook to clip the wings of the upper chamber by restricting its power of veto. That accomplished, he set about passing the rule and the Welsh disestablishment bills, which next session are to come up for the third time, and no matter what the attitude of the house of lords is, will become law. The government will then pass the bill to put an end to plural voting likewise passed for the third time and then go to the country for an endorsement of what it has done and a mandate to carry licensing, educational and land bills.

The Liberals, therefore, have as much work ahead of them as they have accomplished in their eight years of office.

When the party came into power in 1905 Mr. Balfour, then prime minister, found that by-election after by-election was going against him and he decided to resign. He chose this course instead of dissolving the house of commons, because he believed that it would be either impossible for the Liberals to form a cabinet, on account of the split which had occurred over the South African war, or if such was formed it would be such as would weaken instead of strengthen the Liberal party. He had been badly informed, for in a plain before this assembly of Liberal leaders had been held at which all differences were sunk and the composition of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's cabinet practically decided upon. When Mr. Balfour's resignation was announced, therefore, the Liberal leader was able to inform the king that he could accept the task of forming a ministry, which he did forthwith, and the party in the following year won an unprecedented victory at the polls.

GERMANS TROUBLED WITH HIGH PRICES

Withdraw Tariff Law Allowing Free Meat From Russia and Iceland For Trust Raising Price.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, Jan. 3.—Further movements upwards in the high cost of living are already in sight for the new year. Two measures in particular just decided upon threaten to tax severely the purse of the German housewife. The privileges of importing duty-free meat from Russia, by which the Russians were able to force down the price of beef and pork from two to ten cents per pound during the past year is not to be continued. Furthermore, the icemen have formed a union, the first of which is to be an increase of several cents a hundred pounds in the cost of ice next summer.

Imposed Full Duty.

The meat privilege, which was available only to municipalities buying for the benefit of residents, expires March 31. The Conservative party, which wishes to secure for its agrarian constituents as high a price as possible for their cattle and swine, fought the concession to middle-class and poorer appetites from the start, and now has brought about the reimposition of the full duty on Russian meat.

The municipalities of Greater Berlin ran their meat shops at a loss of some $35,000 during the past year. It is probable that other German cities will have to make up the loss by showing corresponding book losses. For the tax payer and resident, however, the profit from cheaper meat has been made.

Increased Price.

The Berlin icemen's new syndicate maintains that the proposed increase will be only 2 1/2 cents per hundred pounds, making the price 13 1/2 cents per hundredweight. But under the new tariff it is absolutely impossible to manufacture or import ice at a profit. This price, however, is only for dealers with contracts, and the consumer using less than 2,000 hundredweight of ice will pay a minimum of 20 cents. The ordinary citizen, who in Germany gets his ice by the pailful, broken into chunks the size of an apple, a pailful of less than 100 pounds will pay 25 cents, what the iceman decides the traffic can bear.

Strike for Title.

German dental students in more than a dozen schools are on strike for higher titles. They demand to be known after graduation as doctors of dental surgery and not be restricted to the inferior classification of tooth-dentists, which now prevails in Germany. The strike includes the dental departments of the universities of Berlin, Leipzig, Halle, Bonn, Heidelberg, Marburg and Greifswald, where the students refuse to continue their studies unless they are given the coveted title.

The high grade and highly remunerative dental practice in Germany is largely monopolized by American dentists, which now prevails in Germany. The strike includes the dental departments of the universities of Berlin, Leipzig, Halle, Bonn, Heidelberg, Marburg and Greifswald, where the students refuse to continue their studies unless they are given the coveted title.

Expose Conditions of Child Traffic

Woman Writer Collects Evidence of Parents Selling Children or Having Them Adopted.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Berlin, Jan. 3.—Startling revelations concerning child traffic in Germany are contained in a book published today by Mme. Henrietta Arendt, of Stuttgart. She charges that the sale of children goes on unintermittently with the silent consent of public opinion, parents actually disposing of them to the highest bidder among better-situated childless families.

In a single month she collected 227 advertisements inserted in the newspapers by persons offering to sell or "adopt" children. As many of the little ones are "adopted" merely for future exploitation, it really means a slave traffic of the most remarkable character, says Mme. Arendt. In a number of the papers the advertisements regarding children are interspersed with those for the sale of cattle and pigs.

An old gentleman from "several miles out" came into a notary's office and announced that he wanted to execute a deed. The official, who knew the visitor as "Uncle Alex," got a blank deed and prepared to write.

"What are you doing, you say?" he asked.

"E. Z," replied the old man.

"Why, your name is Alex; and it commences with an A."

"Yes, sure," said the old man, "my initials are E. Z."

Grown somewhat suspicious of the old gentleman's erudition, the notary

asked:

"What was the Z for?"

The would-be grantor replied: "It stands for Zander; my full name is Alexander."

She was attempting to dance with a fat man at a tango tea. The fat man was a great bungler, and he knew it. He gasped as they hobbled about to the strains of "Every Little Movement."

"It's awfully kind of you to dance with me—me, the worst dancer in the room!"

Then he trod on her foot for the sixth time and the girl replied:

"What are you doing, you say? Why, you hardly seem to touch the floor!"

"My brudders," said a waggish darter to a crowd, "in all affections, in all ob your troubles, dar is one place your always find sympathy."

"What?" "What?" shouted several of his audience.

"In de dictionary," he replied, rolling his eyes skyward.

A lawyer of Omaha entering an eating house was immediately approached by a waiter, who observed cheerfully, "I have frogs' legs, deviled kidneys, pigs' feet and calves' brains."

"Well," said the lawyer sternly, "you look it, but what's that to me? I came to eat."

Switzerland Plans European Compact To Preserve Peace

Swiss Aim to Protect Local Industries In Case of War by Leading Red Cross Camp for Warring Armies.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Berne, Switzerland, Jan. 3.—In the near future Switzerland will very likely present to the powers a request that in the event of a great European war all of Switzerland be constituted into a Red Cross camp for the wounded of all the nations involved. This, Switzerland is now convinced is the only way that not only her neutrality but her very existence could be preserved.

Although the neutrality of Switzerland is guaranteed by the leading powers, the Swiss government has recently become convinced that unless she has some actual way of insulating the country from the war, the four great powers surrounding her this guarantee would amount to very little. In addition she is also convinced that the only way to prevent the war from being conducted at the expense of the powers involved of the exports of coal and provisions which they would need for their own armies. As Switzerland is entirely dependent on the surrounding powers not only for her coal, but for her grain and practically all her food supply, the cutting of these imports would reduce the entire country to starvation within a few weeks.

It is the hopes of exacting a guarantee from all of the four powers surrounding her not to interrupt these imports in case of war that Switzerland is considering the project of having the entire country declared a great international Red Cross camp, and to undertake the care of the wounded of all nations in the event of any general European war. Members of the Swiss government who are backing the movement declare this would not only insure for Switzerland the neutrality and all of the protection that is accorded by international agreement to the Red Cross Camps, but it would also insure that her industries would not be ruined by the cutting off of the coal supply, and her population reduced to starvation by the stopping of food imports.

It is to be submitted to the powers will provide that as fast as the wounded are cured they will be returned to their respective countries. This, Switzerland is convinced, will be of enough importance to any of the powers engaged in a European war to make certain that none of them would violate her neutrality by crossing the boundary with one of its armies or interfere with her food supply.

POINTS TO EVIDENT NEED FOR TOLERANCE

MILWAUKEE. CORRESPONDENT TOUCHES ON HOLIDAY CUSTOMS IN WEEKLY LETTER.

JEWES MAKE A PROTEST

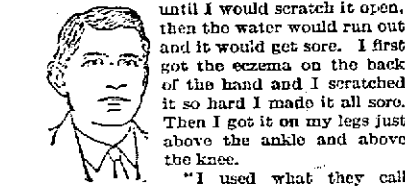

Municipal Christmas Trees and Exercises in Public Schools Criticized as Curtailing Religious Liberty.

By Ellis B. Usher. Milwaukee, Jan. 3.—It has been a new feature of the Christmas holidays in this city, and in some other cities of the state, to have what was termed a "municipal Christmas tree," or a public Christmas tree, and in a number of places the public trees were supplemented with exercises, in which public officials and the scholars of the public school participated. Here in Milwaukee an orthodox Jewish rabbi, in a communication to a newspaper, objected to this public demonstration as the observance of a sectarian holiday. In La Crosse, it was told of eight Jewish children in

ECZEMA BROKE OUT IN WATER BLISTERS

Scratched It So Hard All Sore. On Hand, Then on Legs. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Cured in Six Weeks.

748 Congress St., Chicago, Ill.—"My eczema broke out like little water blisters. Each one was full of water and would itch until I would scratch it open, then the water would run out and it would get sore. I first got the eczema on the back of the hand and I scratched it so hard I made it all sore. Then I got it on my legs just above the ankle and above the knee.

"I used what they call Cuticura and it stopped the itch but it got worse. Then I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment in the paper. One day I saw the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment in the paper. I wrote for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I tried them and then bought some more. Cuticura Soap and Ointment left my sores nice and smooth. I used them for six weeks, and am now cured! The eczema left no marks." (Signed) F. W. Morris, Oct. 19, 1912.

Although the Cuticura Soap and Ointment are most successful in the treatment of affections of the skin, scalp, hair and hands, they are also most valuable for everyday use in the toilet, bath and nursery because they promote and maintain the health of the skin and hair from infancy to age. Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston." 25c. Mica who share and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

sentiments must unfriendly reception in Chili, was evidence of what, despite the systematic efforts of recent years, has been a failure on the part of citizens of the United States and of this government, to make warm friends of our southern neighbors. Prof. Hiram Bingham, who lectures upon the history of the United States, is the author of a recent book that touches this interesting and important subject with a familiar hand of a master. In the Monroe Doctrine and Absolute Shabbath, he puts the truth of his position into this sentence: "Based on a condition that has long disappeared, owing its later growth and development to mistaken ideas, it appears that the American neighbor to be neither disinterested nor unselfish, but rather an indisputable evidence of our overweening national conceit. Such a temper certainly seems to exist today, and nationalizing pretensions, and discussion of the subject ought to be candid and statesmanlike. We may yet have to face the problem in concrete and unpleasant shape before the Mexican troubles are over."

A Review of the Year. Advertisement. The facts as to the progress of the Wisconsin Telephone Company during the past year have just been made public through the report of the General Manager, J. O. Seymour, of this city. He tells us that the net gain in subscribers for the year in the state was 19,304, a number equivalent to the service required by 100,000 people. The public utility companies connected with the Wisconsin company increased almost an equal number or 10,473, so the Bell System in this state is now 1,077,000 subscribers ahead of a year ago. It is a good lesson in the infinite detail of this business to understand that to accomplish this increase of 19,304 subscribers the company put in 16,361 new telephones, changed 14,467 more. In all, therefore, 57,878 were handled in some manner during the year, for the accommodation of the business, which represents changes in 43 per cent of the company's stations in the state. Besides these changes and additions in telephone instruments, the new service required 10,500 new poles upon which wires were strung, and 1,171 miles, enough toll wire to reach from New York to Honolulu. The outlay of money in Wisconsin for 1913 aggregated $1,600,000, this year's bill will reach two and a half million dollars. Such statistics make it plain that Wisconsin is having large telephone development and there is no development that is more urgent. Plans for this year contemplate a continuance of this growth and of the effort to give the people of this state the very best of telephone facilities.

Democratic Politics. Quite a stir has been made in democratic circles by the removal of Postmaster David C. Owen, who has been a very efficient officer, and the nomination of Frank Schütz to succeed him. The appointment of Mr. Schütz to succeed Mr. Owen as collector of the revenue was not so jarring in its effects upon republican officeholders, because Mr. Plnk's term was not definite like that of the postmaster. It set all the republicans looking up the Congressional Record and they find that removals have been coming fast since the passage of the currency bill. They are now all prepared for the drop of the axe, any minute.

The political star gazers are getting busy, and the men who seem to be moving with a distinct assurance are Governor McGovern and his backers, and it looks to me as if they have the only political machine left in the state and a long lead among the Republicans. A careful examination of last year's campaign will convince any man who understands political figures that McGovern and the Bull Moose completely stave in the La Follette works. Two-thirds of McGovern's votes came from rural districts, and the bulk of the Scandinavian territory where Bob has been invincible. It looks very much as if the Democrats might walk down the middle of the track again unless they get badly beaten by McGovern, which has its most hopeful, or its almost hopeless, prospect in an attempt to throw the La Follette vote to Aylward. This outcome is a game plan on the carpet, but there are likely to be a baker's dozen of other senatorial candidates, of all shades and complexions, and such confusion may help McGovern's machine to an easy victory.

The New Year in Erie. (Advertisement.) A few weeks ago the "Wall Street Journal" had a review of President Underwood's twelve years of direct rule said he had brought it "up from a streak of rust into a 'Class A' standard and trunk line." The year 1914 will be the Erie's great year, and will demonstrate that such compliments are not unfounded. The opening of the double track facilities between Chicago and New York will find the road equipped to handle the great volume of traffic that is bound to come. The preparations have been going on for a number of years. The Erie's office in this city, with Mr. H. D. Pheatt in charge, is not a local affair, all Wisconsin is looked after with a view of corps of traveling traffic men. Mr. Pheatt, too, has "more rope" than most freight men in the field. He can make international rates across either ocean. If a shipper wants that sort of service, and he can do it without special permission from headquarters. This is only one of a series of Erie offices that have been opened up all through the west, clear to the Pacific and in Canada. This is the way Mr. Underwood has been preparing for the day when the Erie could handle the business with the best of them. Watch the Erie's stock in 1914, if you want to see live railroading. It helps Wisconsin to have a baker's dozen of her sons at the head of such a trunk line, and her business men will find it out if they try.

Short Notes. Apropos of my recent remarks on Denmark for Dr. McCarthy's benefit, Wisconsin farmers will be pleased to know that the little country has decided to direct them for model dairying about $10,000,000 worth of American oleomargarine annually, and sells its butter to England.

Some of the names already mentioned for United States senators are Stephenson, McGovern, Morris, Aylard, Philipp, Estabrook, Weiss and Carpenter, and the lists are open.

How to Make Better Cough Syrup than You Can Buy

A Family Supply, Saving $2 and Fully Guaranteed.

A full pint of cough syrup—as much as you could buy for $2.50—can easily be made at home. You will find nothing that takes hold of the ordinary cough more quickly, usually conquering it in 24 hours. Excellent, too, for spasmodic croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, asthma and bronchitis.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, then add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This is just laxative enough to help relieve a cough. Also stimulates the appetite, which is usually upset by a cough. The taste is pleasant.

The effect of pine and sugar syrup on the inflamed membranes is well known. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in quaiacal and other natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination. This Pinex and Sugar Syrup remedy has often been imitated, but the old successful mixture has never been equaled. It is now used in more homes than any other cough remedy.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

WITHIN THE LAW

By MARVIN DANA FROM THE PLAY OF BAYARD VELLER

Copyright, 1913, by the E. E. Fry Company.

"Good 'God, no!" Dick shouted, aghast.

"Then it was you!"

"No, no! He didn't!" Mary's words came frantically.

Burke reiterated the accusation. "One of you killed Griggs. Which one of you did it?" He scowled at Dick. "Did she kill him?"

"I told you no!"

"Well, then," he blustered to the girl, "did he kill him?"

The nod of his head was toward Dick. Then as she remained silent, "I'm talking to you!" he snapped. "Did he kill him?"

The reply came with a soft distinctness that was like a crash of destiny.

"Yes."

Dick turned to his wife in reproachful amazement.

"Mary?" he cried incredulously.

"You'll swear he killed him?" Burke asked briskly.

"Why not?" she responded listlessly. At this intolerable assertion he deemed it Edward Gilder sat rigidly erect in his chair.

"God!" he cried despairingly. "And that's your vengeance!"

"I don't want vengeance now!" she said.

"But they'll try my boy for murder," the magnate remonstrated; distraught.

"Oh, no, they can't!" came the rejoinder.

"What's the reason we can't?" Burke stormed.

"Because my husband merely killed a burglar. He shot him in defense of his home!"

In his office next morning Inspector Burke was fuming over the failure of his conspiracy. He had hoped through this plot to vindicate his authority, so sadly flouted by Garson and Mary Turner. Instead of this much to be desired result from his scheming the outcome had been nothing less than disastrous.

Some one had murdered Griggs, the stool pigeon. The murder could not go unpunished. The slayer's identity must be determined. To the discovery of this identity, the inspector was at the present moment devoting himself by adroit questioning of Dacey and Chicago Red, who had been arrested in one of their accustomed haunts.

"Come across now!" he admonished. His voice rolled forth like that of a bull of Bashan. He was on his feet, facing the two thieves. His head was thrust forward menacingly, and his eyes were savage.

"I don't know 'nothin'!" Chicago Red's voice was between a snarl and a whine. "Ain't I been telling you that for over an hour?"

Burke gave Dacey, who chanced to be the nearer of the two, a shove that sent the fellow staggering halfway across the room under its impetus.

"Dacey, how long have you been out?"

"A week."

"Want to go back for another stretch?"

"God, no!"

"Who shot Griggs?"

The reply was a chorus from the two:

"I don't know—honest, I don't!"

In his engerness Chicago Red moved toward his questioner.

"Honest to Gawd, I don't know nothin' about it!"

The inspector's fist shot out toward Chicago Red's jaw. The thief went to his knees under the blow.

"Now, get up—and talk!" Burke's voice came with unrepentant noisiness against the stricken man.

Cringingly, Chicago Red obeyed as far as the getting to his feet was concerned. While he got slowly to his feet he took care to keep at a respectful distance from the official.

Cassidy entered the inspector's office to announce the arrival of the district attorney.

"Send 'im in," Burke directed. He made a gesture toward the doorman and added, "Take 'em back!"

"I came as soon as I got your message," the district attorney said as he seated himself in a chair by the desk. "And I've sent word to Mr. Gilder. Now, then, Burke, let's have this thing quickly!"

The inspector's explanation was concise:

"Joe Garson, Chicago Red and Dacey, along with Griggs, broke into Edward Gilder's house last night. I knew the trick was going to be pulled off, and so I planted Cassidy and a couple of other men just outside the room where the haul was to be made. Then I went away, and after something like half an hour I came back to make the arrests myself. When I broke into the room I found young Gilder alone with that Turner woman he married, and they were just talking together."

"I found Griggs lying on the floor—dead! The Turner woman says young Gilder shot Griggs because he broke into the house. Ain't that the limit?"

"What does the boy say?"

"Nothing. We've got Chicago Red and Dacey, and we'll have Garson before the day's over. And, oh, yes! They've picked up a young girl at the Turner woman's place. And we've got one real clew—for once! He opened a drawer of the desk and took out Garson's pistol, to which the silencer was still attached.

"You never saw a gun like that before, eh?" he exclaimed. Demarest admitted the fact.

"I'll bet you never did! That thing on the end is a Maxim silencer. There are thousands of them in use on rifles, but they've never been able to use them on revolvers before. That thing is absolutely noiseless. I've tried it. Well, you see, it'll be an easy thing—easiest thing in the world—to trace that silencer attachment. Cassidy's working on that end of the thing now!"

CHAPTER XVI. Who Shot Griggs?

FOR a few minutes longer the two men discussed the details of the crime, theorizing over the baffling event. Then Cassidy entered.

"I got the factory at Hartford on the wire," he explained, "and they gave me Mr. Maxim himself. He said this was surely a special gun, which was made for the use of Henry Sylvester, one of the professors at Yale. He wanted it for demonstration purposes. Mr. Maxim said the things have never been put on the market, and that they never will be. I got this man, Sylvester, Cassidy went on, "on the phone too. He says that his house was robbed about eight weeks ago, and among other things the silencer was stolen."

"Is there any chance that young Gilder did shoot Griggs?" asked Demarest.

"You can search me!" the inspector answered. "My men were just outside the door of the room where Eddie Griggs was shot to death, and none of 'em heard a sound. It's that infernal silencer thing. Of course, I know that all the gang was in the house."

"Did you see them go in?"

"No, I didn't, but Griggs—"

"Griggs is dead, Burke. You're up against it. You can't prove that Garson or Chicago Red or Dacey ever entered that house."

"Well, then, I'll charge young Gilder with murder and call the Turner woman as a witness."

"You can't question her on the witness stand. The law doesn't allow you to make a wife testify against her husband. No, Burke, your only chance of getting the murderer of Griggs is by a confession."

"Then I'll charge them both with the murder," the inspector growled vindictively. "And by — they'll both go to trial unless somebody comes through. If it's my last act on earth, I'm going to get the man who shot Eddie Griggs!"

Burke, after the lawyer had left him watching the door expectantly for the coming of Aggie Lynch, whom he had ordered brought before him. But when at last Dan appeared and stood aside to permit her passing into the office, the inspector gasped at the unexpectedness of the vision. The next instant the inspector forgot his surprise in a sincere, almost ardent admiration.

The girl was rather short, but of a slender elegance of form that was ravishing. Her costume had about it an indubitable air, a finality of perfection in its kind. On another it might have appeared perhaps the merest trifle garish. But that fault was made into a virtue by the correcting innocence of the girl's face. It was a childish face, childish in the exquisite smoothness of the soft, pink skin, childish in the wondering stare of the blue eyes, now so widely opened in dismay, childish in the wistful drooping of the rosybud mouth.

"Now, then, my girl," Burke said roughly. "I want to know!"

There came a change, wrought in the twinkling of an eye. The tiny, trimly shod foot of the girl rose, and fell in a wistful stamp.

"What do you mean by this outrage?" she stormed. Her voice was low and rich, with a charming roundness that seemed the very hallmark of gentility. "I demand my instant release."

"Wait a minute!" Burke remonstrated. "Wait a minute!"

"You wait!" she cried violently. "You just wait. I tell you, until my papa hears of this!"

"Who is your papa?"

"I shan't tell you," came the petulant retort from the girl. "You would probably give my name to the reporters. If it ever got into the newspapers my family would die of shame!"

"Now, the easiest way out for both of us is for you to tell me just who you are. You see, young lady, you were found in the house of a notorious crook."

"How perfectly absurd! I was calling on Miss Mary Turner!"

"How did you come to meet her anyhow?"

"I was introduced to Miss Turner by Mr. Richard Gilder. Perhaps you have heard of his father, the owner of the Emporium."

"Oh, yes, I've heard of his father and of him too."

"Then you must see at once that you are entirely mistaken in this matter."

"You see, young lady, the fact is that even if you were introduced to Miss Turner by young Mr. Gilder this same Mary Turner herself is an ex-convict, and she's just been arrested for murder."

"Murder!" the girl gasped.

"Yes. You see, if there's a mistake about you you don't want it to go any further—not a mile further, that's sure. So, you see, now that's one of the reasons why I must know just who you are."

"You should have told me all about this horrid thing in the first place. Now the girl's manner was transformed. She smiled wistfully on the inspector and spoke with a simplicity that was peculiarly potent in its effect on the official.

"My name is Helen Travers West," she announced.

"Not the daughter of the railway president?"

"Yes," the girl admitted. "Oh, please don't tell any one," she begged prettily. "Surely, sir, you see now quite plainly why it must never be known by any one in all the wide, wide world that I have ever been brought to this perfectly dreadful place—though you have been quite nice. Please let me go home."

She plucked a minute handkerchief from her hand bag, put it to her eyes and began to sob quietly. The burly inspector of police was moved to quick sympathy.

"That's all right, little lady," he exclaimed cheerfully. "Now, don't you be worried, not a little bit. Take it from me, Miss West. Just go ahead and tell me all you know about this Turner woman. Did you see her yesterday?"

The girl's sobs ceased. After a final dab with the minute handkerchief she leaned forward a little toward the inspector and proceeded to put a question to him with great earnestness.

"Will you let me go home as soon as I've told you the twenty little I know?"

"Yes," Burke agreed promptly, with an encouraging smile. He added as one might to an alarmed child, "No one is going to hurt you, young lady."

"Well, then, you see, it was this way," began the brisk explanation. "Mr. Gilder was calling on me one afternoon, and he said to me then that he knew a very charming young woman who—"

Here the speech ended abruptly, and once again the handkerchief was brought into play as the sobbing broke forth with increased violence. Presently the girl's voice rose in a wail.

"Oh, this is dreadful—dreadful!" In the final word the wail broke to a moan.

Burke felt himself vaguely guilty as the cause of such suffering on the part of one so young, so fair, so innocent. But his well meant attempt to assuage the stricken creature's woe was futile. The sobbing continued.

"I'm afraid!" the girl asserted dismally. "I'm afraid you will—put me in a cell!"

"Pooh!" Burke returned gallantly. "Why, my dear young lady, nobody in the world could think of you and a cell at the same time—no, indeed!"

"Oh, thank you!"

"Are you sure you've told me all you

know about this woman?"

"Oh, yes! I've only seen her two or three times," came the ready response. "Oh, please, commissioner! Won't you let me go home?"

The use of a title higher than his own flattered the inspector, and he was moved to graciousness.

"Now, you see," he said in his heavy voice, yet very kindly, "no one has hurt you—not even a little bit, after all. Now, you run right home to your mother."

The girl sprang up joyously and started toward the door, with a final ravishing smile for the pleased official at the desk.

It was at this moment that Cassidy entered from the opposite side of the office. As his eyes fell on the girl at the door across from him, his stolid face lighted in a grin. And, in that same instant of recognition between the two the color went out of the girl's face. The little red lips snapped together in a line of supreme disgust against this vicissitude of fate after all her maneuverings in the face of the enemy.

"Hello, Aggie," the detective remarked, with a smirk, while the inspector stared from one to the other and his jaw dropped from the stark surprise.

The girl returned deliberately to the chair she had occupied through the interview with the inspector and dropped into it weakly. It was after a minute of silence, in which the two men sat staring, that at last she spoke with a savage wrath against the pit into which she had fallen after her arduous efforts.

"Ain't that the—est luck!"

"Cassidy, do you know this woman?" asked Burke.

"Sure I do!" came the placid answer. "She's little Aggie Lynch—con' woman, from Buffalo—two years for blackmail—did her time at Kearsney."

For a little time there was silence, the while Burke sat staring at the averted face of the girl. Then he set his features grimly, rose from his chair and walked to position directly in the front of the girl, who still refused to look in his direction.

"On the level, now," the inspector demanded, "when did you see Mary Turner last?"

"Early this morning. We slept together last night because I had the willies. She blew the joint about half past 10."

"What's the use of your lying to me?"

"So help me," Aggie continued with the utmost solemnity, "Mary never left the house all night. I'd swear that's the truth on a pile of Bibles a mile high."
